

How does Mumbai travel?

Short answer

51% on foot.

Long answer

First let me explain what a trip is. Assume you are going from your house to office on a train - thats one trip. (your return journey is another trip). This trip has 3 legs. First leg, from your house to station, then your train journey and third is from station to office. You can walk, get an auto, ride a bike - That doesn't matter. We are looking at over 15 million trips that the city of Mumbai makes each day. I am quoting this from a study that BMC did in 2014 called the Comprehensive Mobility Plan. About 70%+ commutes by the train. Then you have the BEST, followed by IPTs - taxis, auto rickshaws and now the Ubers and Olas, followed by motorcycle, followed by car. All of this is just the motorised trips. The study estimated that about 51% of all trips in Mumbai happen on foot. Personal automobiles are 5-7% of all trips that happen in Mumbai. So largely this is how Mumbai travels.
